there were no less than 191 children crowded together in a space which, according to wellestablished sanitary laws, will scarcely afford bealthful breathing room for one-half that number. As for recreation grounds, they have none ; and at least one-half the children are so small that they cannot be trusted out upon the street for fear of accident befalling them. And these 191 pupils, we under-Now, if there were an abundance of room for children and teachers, we do not say it manage efficiently so many children; but under the circumstances in which they are placed in the Broughton street school, we do think it utterly out of the question that the teachers can do justice either to themselves or the children under their charge. We have beard it more than once said that the children in Brough-"ton street school do not make that progress in their studies that their par-Coats think they should, and it may be attributed to the causes we have mentioned. No one need blame the teachers for it. The school is not only thoroughly qualified for only due to her to say that her heart is in Private Sale) her work. And we believe her assistants are no less deveted than she is herself. But they cannot perform impossible tasks. They cannot increase the area of the school-room provided for them, and without more room much of their labor is unavoidably wasted. This is a duty that devolves upon the Board of School Trustees. In the interest of education, and in the interest of teachers and pupils, they should put forth an effort to in-crease the school accommodation of the city. Another-school house should be provided, so better accommodation than they now enjoy in the existing over-crowded schools. De grounds will be ornamented with fine fountains and marble statuary, the latter being stationed an both hides of the walks. Here in Victoria we can hardly look forward for some years to fine fountains and marble statuary to ornament the square fronting the grounds of the Government Buildings, James Bay, yet what is now, a dry and arid waste might with the planting and fencing in of a few ornamental shrubs and flowers, be turned into an attractive promenade. This step was talked of so far back as eight or nine years ago, and of so far back as eight or nine years ago, and is very limited, and we would advise all who as it could be accomplished for a few hun-wish to pass a pleasant evening, and enjoy a dred dolfars, what is to prevent the Hos. New York, Sept. 3.—To-day another counterfeit five hundred dollar greenback was received at the sub-Treasury, making thirteen received since Saturday. It is believed at the sub-Treasury that the counterfeit bills come from the west, and that there are but a few in circulation in New York.

The bills have been examined by experts of the American Bank Note Co., and prenounced by them up be the best counterfeited bills that have ever come under their notices.

George W. Master, of the sub-Treasury, says the paper on which the forged bills are printed is lighter than that of the ganuine, and he also says that the face of the bills cannot be distinguished from the genuine, but that the letters on the back are tinged with green, whereas they should be aperfectly white. and that a blue line, neculiar to the conclusions for the unnecessary exertion, and if any narrow thinking creature chooses to conclude that the inordinate growth of books of the present day, and the consumption of the same is another device of Satan,—in-which, however, as in most other of his devices, that overwise, and too far sighted tac-tician sometimes overreaches himself,—to engage men's thoughts, and keep them from personal meddling with the great problems of the universe, far be it from me to say to that RESCULAR THE GREAT PUMP. The great pump has come and gone, and been defeated. The mighty Fraser rolls on to-day as careless and jestous of its golden treasure as ever. That pump of golden and happy dreams has proved futile to reclaim the gold which lies embedded in the bars of the Fraser. That there are millions of wealth there, all are agreed, but the proof is wealth there, all are agreed, but the proof is that some contrivance other than a submarine pump must be brought to bear before it can be recovered. Indomitable, enterprising Cargotich, take your pumps to the golden sands of Africa, there you might be successful; then if so, you will leave "footprints in the sands of time," and your name and history will be written on a material more ductile and less brittle than that which has been the thoughts of your life and the study of your riper years. of your riper years.
